

Word of God

Sun - Moon - Earth

A selection of godly proclamations received through the 'Inner Word' by Bertha Dudde

Translation handled by Doris Boekers, Heidi Hanna, Christian Taffertshofer

Published by Friends of the New Revelation

Hans-Willi Schmitz
St. Bernardinstr. 47
47608 Geldern-Kapellen
Germany

++++++

Please take special notice of the fact that God's Words addressed to us are non-denominational. The contents of this publication by no means intends to attract members of any Christian religious affiliation nor to recruit members into any other religious affiliation. Its sole purpose is to make the present-day Word of God accessible to all people.

++++++

Source: <https://www.bertha-dudde.org/en>

Table of Contents

0495 Sun systems.... Fire-spewing mountain.... Eruptions.....	4
The natural sun.....	5
1012 Sun.....	5
1013 Sun.....	5
1014 Sun.....	6
1015 Sun.....	6
1458 Cloudless sky....effect of the sun.....	7
The light of the sun.....	8
1756 Serving in love.... light transmission.... sun light bearer.....	8
1821 Luminosity of the sun.....	9
1822 Process of light emission.....	10
4318 Light of the sun.... interaction.....	10
The spiritual sun.....	12
0960 Spiritual sun.... heavenly gardeners.... word of God.....	12
4078 Spiritual sun.....	12
7478 God's word - spiritual sun.....	13
7646 Spiritual sun.... Life force influx.....	14
2892 Spiritual sun.... lightning from rising to setting.....	15
Moon, Saturn and Venus.....	17
7955 Moon.....	17
7960 Cosmos.... Illumination of stars.....	18
1008 Saturn.....	19
1119 Diversity of creations.....	20
1120 Research work.... stars.... Venus.....	20
The Earth - Origin and development.....	22
3397 The earth as a lightless star.... light reception.....	22
7942 Origin of the creation work 'earth'.....	22
3504a Evolution of the earth before humans.....	24
3504b Earth test.... new earth and its emergence.....	24
The transformation of the earth.....	26
0945 Collision of Earth and Sun.... Researchers.... The Earth's core.....	26
2448 Inner Earth activity.... Eruptions.....	26
6282 Transformation of Earth.... Eruptions.....	27
6561 Earth, a paradise.....	28
4336 Earth school of the spirit.....	29

The whole of the solar system is also in accord with the great work of Creation. Were you to envision all the sun systems, your intellect would truly be unable to cope, for these dimensions would surpass the human being's thinking ability. You deem the measurements of Earth alone considerably more extensive than you can rationally take in. Yet the Earth can be called tiny compared to the size of the smallest sun systems. But countless such sun systems exist in the infinite space which differ in their dimension, composition and kind from each other, yet in their final purpose they all serve the same objective of furthering the steady higher development of the beings which, having emerged from God, separated themselves from God and shall return to God again. Every solar body is an infinitely enlarged similar work of creation as Earth Only a few people can understand that the sun can be compared to a fire-spewing mountain However, this comparison will only be understandable if one considers the fact that the Creator very wisely also designed the interior of such a mountain so that it can be the abode of countless beings and that the activity of these beings consists of producing endless eruptions through which the whole composition of the mountain undergoes constant changes again so that a proportion of beings can shed their cover again and open up their path to other regions on and above the earth. Consequently, such eruptions happen with the Creator's full approval, and the activity of anyone who loses his earthly life due to such occurrences is limited and they will move on to a different opportunity for development. The solar worlds are likewise creations which the Lord has placed into space for the purpose of constantly new arising heavenly bodies. Every sun is continually active. In its interior rage unimaginable forces whose elementary power continuously throws parts of their interior into space, these are seized again by spiritual beings and shaped into entirely independently active heavenly bodies which are equipped with everything that is required by the living creations which are intended to live there again. However, each of such heavenly bodies will always be in a certain connection with the sun from which it had emerged. Just as the mass thrown out by a fire-spewing mountain always falls back to the earth's surface again due to gravity so will the released matter from the sun always remain within the vicinity of this sun due to this sun's gravitational pull and will also be constantly nourished by this very sun with light and warmth, without which no heavenly body in the universe would be able to survive. Merely the purpose of each world will vary, insofar as constantly different living conditions will also result in constantly different achievements, and such an abode is precisely what is required by those spiritual beings which, in a certain sense, need to continue their development which are sent there by the Creator of Heaven and Earth in realisation of what they are lacking. The universe is endless countless spiritual beings exist and thus time and again the opportunity must be offered to all of them to attain their set goal Space is infinite infinite is the power of God and infinite is His love for His living creations For this reason everything has been created out of God's love and power.

Amen

Translation handled by Heidi Hanna

The natural sun

Sun....

B.D. No. 1012

July 20th 1939

The sun draws its light and luminosity from love.... understand this well.... God is love and God feeds everything that exists with His power of love, including the countless suns that orbit the universe. Let the power of these suns be explained to you: It is of the utmost importance to know with what tremendous speed all the world's bodies fly through the universe. Friction creates an extraordinary atmosphere precisely where certain resistances are noticeable, because friction generates heat and therefore an isolated body does not necessarily need to radiate this heat. It is therefore only necessary for an exceptionally moving body to release certain degrees of heat, and the sun could therefore just as well be a cold mass, but the earth would still generate so much heat through its own speed in its revolutions that the demand would be completely covered. Now, however, an explanation must be mentally inserted which develops a completely different picture. The effects of the sun's rays on the earth are merely due to the fact that divine strength flows uninterrupted through them onto the earth and its inhabitants, that therefore what you see as sunbeams are countless carriers of strength which have their origin with God as the eternal spirit of love and influence everything on earth and thus nourish it with gifts of love offered by the eternal deity Himself. Every ray of sunlight carries countless small and tiny microbes, which are again unspeakably vital for the existence of living beings on earth. Such carriers of light and power must continuously establish the connection between the eternal deity and its beings, and contact must therefore be and remain established if the being is to be constantly nourished by this power, and this is therefore the purpose of the sun with its rays....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Sun....

B.D. No. 1013

July 21st 1939

What brings about this extraordinary luminosity?.... What is the connection between the forces that simultaneously ignite undreamt-of physical and spiritual effects and ignite an extraordinary light and thus remain inimitable in every respect?.... How do the spiritual currents relate to each other, and what visible or earthly explainable natural force underlies this luminosity?.... These are all questions that penetrate so deeply into spiritual knowledge that the human intellect is truly too small to answer them for itself. Only where purely spiritual knowledge is striven for at the same time can clarification be given, for only in the working of the spiritual forces lies the reason for this miracle of creation. Incomparably sublime is the awareness that man has, as it were, a right to be informed about it, that he may and also should fill in every gap in his knowledge and that consequently no limits are set for him if he is interested in any questions concerning creation. Especially the sun with its radiant effect is indisputably the greatest riddle in nature for men, and yet they desire little or not at all the instructions which are offered to them from above and which in turn alone can be authoritative, because only the deity Himself can explain in detail and comprehensibly something which has its origin infinitely far away from earth. The neutral combination of two elements results in a new substance.... and this law underlies everything. The union of unexplored forces, on the other hand, produces certain frictions, because each force wants to express itself and displace the other. Where such friction arises, the body at the centre, whether solid or not, must ignite, i.e. rebel against the force oppressing it. Consequently, every appearance of light is a resistance of one force to the second force that wants to express itself. And it is the same with every spiritual current of power....

Sun....

B.D. No. 1014

July 21st 1939

Regulated instruction can only take place if, in addition to his willingness to receive, the person also feels a certain joy at being allowed to constantly draw from the source of all wisdom.... The desire for truth has a favourable effect insofar as a person's heart is now most willingly open to receive the gift intended for him. Everything spiritual has the greatest interest in the explanations that your teacher presents to you, and so continue:

(The effect of the sun's rays) The luminous flux in an electrical installation must be continuously supplemented the more is spent.... however, it is first of all a condition that both external and hidden obstacles that could interrupt the circuit are removed, because the slightest obstacle would be tantamount to stalling and thus endangering the respective receiving device.... Likewise, the supply line to earth must be free of obstacles of any kind, because disregarding this condition could have an extremely damaging effect on everything in this circuit. God's creation is so skilfully constructed that all obstacles evaporate when the sun appears as a carrier of light. It is precisely the flight of everything that could impair the effect of the rays that again testifies to the omnipotence of divine activity, for the divine will must naturally banish everything that could seriously endanger the earth and its inhabitants. According to human judgement the effect of the sun's rays on the earth is a result of the strenuous activity of all spiritual beings which tries to influence human thinking.... Here again it is about the power of the stronger, because this pressurizes the underlying power. It will therefore hardly be possible to explain the emergence of the sun's rays in any other way than that spiritual beings with infinite strength from God approach the earth in the greatest multitude and now, as it were, use themselves in order to prevent an interruption of the strength from God, and thus a constant activity through these spiritual beings must in turn result in the fact that the divine or spiritual strength does not come to a standstill for a moment in earthly existence and thus the uninterrupted irradiation of the earth by the sun finds its explanation in this....

Amen

Sun....

B.D. No. 1015

July 22nd 1939

It is not uncommon for assumptions to lead to false conclusions, and science has also been incredibly wrong when it assumes that there is some kind of glowing mass at the centre of the sun. After all, the fireball would slowly consume itself and the sun would lose light and luminosity. But this has not been the case for ages and will not be the case for ages to come. By comparison, a hearth of fire can only radiate heat for as long as it contains embers, but every ember must eventually die out unless it is nourished, i.e. supplied with substances that re-ignite and thus increase the embers. Applied to the sun, this incomprehensibly large world body would therefore either have to become constantly smaller, or it would have to attract other world bodies to itself, which would then become one with it, as it were, and thus be constant nutrients for the light- and heat-giving source of fire. But the divine work of creation truly does not need such purely factual arguments.... The effect of the sun's rays can be traced back to completely different laws.... The power of God Himself shines without any external influence.... It is the power of God's light in itself, this power is transmitted daily and hourly without interruption into the universe, received by countless spirit bearers and transmitted again by every being, visible and invisible. And therefore you directly receive the life energy from God in the sun's rays.... hence the sun has to distribute this energy for every living being to thrive, and this happens in a way which is completely alien and incomprehensible to human concepts as long as people attach too little value to the spiritual in itself, for the sun's rays are a purely spiritual process which, however, is also outwardly visible to people.... While everything else of a spiritual nature is hidden from them or earthly enveloped, the activity of the mature spiritual world expresses itself here in a way that is visible to people but not recognized as such. An unrestrained unfolding of its power, which however is likewise opposed by spiritual things, creates certain frictions, and everything that is supposed to be repressed is aroused and in a way ignited, and since the spiritual power absolutely wants to come to earth, this stream of light and fire must also be noticeable on earth and thus express itself as a bundle of rays from above. And this process can never come to an end as long as unredeemed spiritual substances still somehow enliven the universe, for the mature spiritual substances will not shy away from any resistance and, by overcoming this resistance, will try to reach the place where spiritual strength is needed by the beings.... Thus the sun will shine until all spiritual beings are redeemed....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Cloudless sky....effect of the sun....

B.D. No. 1458

June 7th 1940

A cloudless, blue sky makes man's fear of threatening clouds disappear, he weighs himself in joyful expectations, and he himself is cheerful and radiant if earthly worries do not depress him. He rejoices in the light of the sun, he rejoices in the whole sight that presents itself to the beauty-thirsty eye. And not infrequently such a sight will also have an ennobling effect on a person's mind; the sun, which touches him favourably on the outside, will also cast a reflection in his heart, whereas a dark, cloudy sky often evokes resentful thoughts in a person. No other explanation is needed than that the beings of light, the mediators of the power from God, turn their power of light and love towards people in all its fullness, and thus the person who receives such spiritual support can reach the heights correspondingly effortlessly if he willingly abandons himself to this influence of the beings of light, i.e. if he thinks and acts as his inner feeling urges him and if this feeling mostly allows him to affirm the good. So on such sunny days the urge to be good is proportionately stronger, and it must also be observed that man does not oppose his inner desire and thereby reduce the influence of the beings of light and power. The natural sun is the awakener of all earthly life, but at the same time it also has the greatest effect on the human being's spiritual life if the human being strives towards higher spiritual development through his own will. The spiritual strength can then reach him to a far greater extent if he allows himself to be influenced by the natural rays of the sun, for these rays are only spiritual activity which can indeed remain without effect if the human being wants to remain completely unimpressed.... for then the effect of the sun's rays is only physically perceptible, i.e. only beneficial to earthly life while spiritual life remains unaffected. Therefore, conscious striving upwards is always a prerequisite for the rays of sunlight to have an influence on spiritual development, but then this effect will be tremendous, i.e. it will bring incomparable success for the human being. And this will manifest itself such that the will to do good, the strength to love and to recognize wisdom from God will be extraordinarily strong.... The desire to ascend will increase, the activity of love will become ever more active and a spiritual decline will be less to be feared, for the beings of light can have a direct effect on hearts which willingly open themselves, which consciously turn towards the sun and, apart from the physical comfort, recognize the spiritual effect of sunlight and desire it....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

The light of the sun

Serving in love.... light transmission.... sun light bearer....

B.D. No. 1756

December 29th 1940

Everything in the universe serves the being for higher development, but what has reached the degree of maturity is completely independent of every work of creation. The purpose of every work of creation is to lead imperfect spiritual substances towards perfection, i.e. to present them with tasks whose fulfilment signifies spiritual progress. And these tasks will always be understood as serving in love. But now the works of creation are of different kind, and therefore also the respective tasks must be of different kind, i.e., the being will have to carry out that activity, which earns it spiritual progress. And therefore the different works of creation are completely different from each other both in their design as well as in their conditions of stay, but always adapted to the degree of maturity of the beings inhabiting them. The more willing the being is to submit to God's will in serving activity the greater tasks are set for it and the sooner it is allowed to take those creations as its abode where a high spiritual level lets this abode become a beautiful and blissful one. For a conscious service in love will also mean a walk in the light and this will always trigger a state of happiness. But serving in love consists of the being wanting to pass on the abundance of light.... but light is knowledge.... thus the being walking in spheres of light imparts its knowledge to the as yet ignorant beings and thus, as it were, irradiates the beings lacking light with its light. Thus, light-giving creations must always be in a certain connection with lightless creations.... the lightless creations must be dependent on those that radiate light, and in this respect the beings of one work of creation serve the beings of the other. The process of light transmission is therefore actually a transmission of knowledge, but it appears externally through the emission of light and luminosity to lightless works of creation. The emanation of light is a perpetual activity of the beings capable of light insofar as they send the light in the form of thoughts to the still ignorant beings, but every thought is light and strength, however, it does not need to be accepted by the being in need of light either, thus the transmission of light cannot be carried out and the state of darkness continues to exist. The beings of such works of creation, to whom the light does not penetrate because they do not desire it, are still very distant from God, their knowledge is small and their will towards God very weak, and the beings already dwelling in the light have no power to force them to accept the light. Consequently, their abundance of light predominantly illuminates those works of creation whose inhabitants turn towards the light, who desire the wisdom from God and who therefore willingly allow themselves to be instructed and thus accept light in the form of spiritual knowledge. The teaching activity of such beings, who therefore inhabit luminous creations, is now to a certain extent also the explanation for the light radiation from such celestial bodies.... A luminous body, a sun, will always illuminate countless non-luminous creations, and this is an activity of love by the beings in the beyond, which are already highly mature and want to pass on the light they are constantly allowed to receive to the beings still walking in darkness, which therefore inhabit creations which correspond to their spiritual state, i.e. which are still far from being light bearers themselves but receive light and luminosity from other works of creation....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

One area that is still unexplored is the luminosity of the sun, which can be physically felt by every human being and is also visible to the human eye, but which is taken for granted and yet has not yet found an explanation that corresponds to the truth. No matter how thoroughly and precisely people investigate, they will never be able to solve this problem by virtue of their human intellect. For man is only able to fathom what is on earth and in its surroundings as far as it still belongs to the earth's sphere. Beyond that, however, human enquiry is inadequate. Man starts from the laws of nature, which are probably the same everywhere on earth, but no longer govern all creations outside the earth. And so, for the first time, the basic conditions for researching unknown works of creation would not exist, consequently the results cannot be flawless either, for they are based on a false foundation. People, however, are convinced of the correctness of these results of human research, although on deeper reflection, if they are believers, they would have to come across contradictions. Either they are not deeply religious or they do not think.... And then the error cannot be explained to them either, and therefore a view is widespread among people which must be called downright wrong in comparison to the truth. The solar body, like every other celestial body, harbours living beings on its outer surface and is therefore animated. Consequently, this body cannot be a glowing mass that constantly sends its light to earth.... This idea is almost naïve, because a solid body that is constantly glowing loses its solidity and would therefore also lose its shape. It must also be taken into consideration that every glowing of a mass requires combustible basic material.... that there must therefore be some matter that is seized by the fire and consumed accordingly.... Everything that the sun harbours would therefore have to be earthly matter, i.e. a basic substance that could be destroyed by fire, by an element that is likewise of earthly origin. But if both the matter and the element cease to exist, there is no explanation for a luminous celestial body. However, everything that is outside the earth is never subject to the laws of nature that apply to the earth. The human mind only grasps that which can be earthly proven to it with likewise earthly laws of nature. But that there is much in God's infinite creation for which the knowledge available to earthly people is truly insufficient will have to be recognized by every wise and believing person, for the earth is only a very tiny work of creation in comparison to infinity. And it is understandable that the inhabitants of this earth cannot be completely initiated into the processes and nature of every work of creation. Things which never exist on earth, for which no parallel can be found on earth, understandably elude man's intellectual knowledge; he cannot reckon with laws of nature which he does not know, which are therefore unknown to him because the conditions for them are not given.... He is therefore also unable to imagine their effects and therefore cannot make any calculations, as they would lack any basis. Nevertheless, the human being can be given spiritual information about it, he just has to believe since nothing can be proven to him as long as he lives on earth. However, the worldly researchers cannot prove their results either, they likewise only have to be believed, and they are believed because the human intellect is not sufficient to recognize and reject fallacies. And an entire body of thought is built upon such a fallacy and now takes shape through established doctrines. People are presented with an earthly-worldly view, an assertion is made about a process which would be a very inadequate explanation for the emergence of light.... from the sun's rays. And people now live in this false view and are satisfied with such an explanation. They thereby gain a false picture because the final goal of the human soul is completely unknown to them. Otherwise, however, they do not accept the enlightenment about the latter, again because everything is explained to them in earthly terms, i.e. as a natural consequence, as is the case with such erroneous teachings. If a person is a believer, he hesitates to accept human wisdom, even though he cannot give himself a better explanation. But the spirit within him warns him against accepting such human teachings. He then regards creation outside the earth as an unsolved riddle, and that is far better than forming closed opinions about it that completely contradict the truth. For a 'questioner' can still be given the right explanation by spiritual knowing powers.... it is difficult to give an explanation that corresponds to the truth to someone who already believes that they know. And yet so much depends on the right realization of this....

Amen

Process of light emission....

B.D. No. 1822

February 20th 1941

The process of radiating light can be compared to a continuing labour of love. This is not quite understandable insofar as the rays of light are visible, thus cannot be denied as something existing, even though it is not a work of creation requiring space.... that a labour of love, however, is an act which, as a product, would have to result in a new form. But light is to be regarded more as a process than as a form, for it is not tangible but perceptible. Nor would man be able to create a form from it, and this is again proof that light is a power from the supernatural kingdom, for everything that is earthly can be moulded into form, provided the human will is seriously active. But in order to somehow shape the rays of light a certain state of maturity of spiritual beings is required, to whom this is incumbent. These beings must be completely independent of the earth and its laws; they must have decided on an activity which presupposes deep love; they must be prepared to constantly give, and indeed want to give from a power which likewise flows to them themselves. This power emanates from God and is therefore spiritual substance that is luminous in itself because everything that is from God possesses an unimaginable luminosity. For God Himself is the light. Thus every ray of sunlight is firstly the power from God, which is transmitted to earth through countless beings who again fulfil their mission by acting as carriers of divine power. Secondly, however, the sun's rays are proof of the tireless activity of these beings, they are in a sense a reservoir from which everything in creation is constantly fed. A process takes place here which is only then understandable when it is recognized that without this passing on of strength from God creation would have to perish, that it is therefore dependent on the activity of those beings whose task it is to constantly impart this strength, to pass it on to everything in need of God's strength.... that it therefore requires a high degree of love in order to constantly give what these beings themselves receive.... This mission is therefore a labour of love of the perfect being for the still imperfect being, which is banished in creation and needs the supply of strength from God, which the spiritual being redeemed from the form receives in excess and, by virtue of its love for the unredeemed, always and constantly transmits to it.... This is the purely spiritual explanation for a process that is still unexplained in earthly terms....

Amen

Light of the sun.... interaction....

B.D. No. 4318

May 30th 1948

The interaction of force and resistance must show itself in light phenomena of whatever kind, or also.... every generation of light is the result of the counteraction of two forces, from which it can be concluded that positive and negative forces are absolutely necessary in order to bring about the light of the sun which outshines everything. The light of the sun has such an important distant effect that people on earth can certainly see and feel it but can never determine its origin because they will never fathom the nature of the sun and will therefore always draw wrong conclusions. Light phenomena on earth always have causes connected with matter, and therefore the same or similar causes are also attributed to the light of the sun. The sun, however, is not a material world, even though it is visible to people and is counted as such in research. It is a purely spiritual heavenly body, a creation which certainly exists, thus it is called into existence by the will of God, but which has no material substances and can therefore only be seen with the spiritual eye, whereas the earthly eye can only see the exceedingly radiant brightness and be dazzled by it. The light of the sun is of such tremendous effect that it must be concluded that it has an origin which lies far beyond human knowledge. A process is taking place in the universe which is only comprehended by a few enlightened people; to a certain extent a gate is open where the activity of the spiritual becomes visible; it is the struggle of the beings of light against the darkness, the counteraction of forces which unfold the utmost energy in order to assert themselves, in order to gain victory over the opposing force. A spiritual creation with all its inhabitants openly confronts the darkness and from there continues to have an effect on it. It is like a perpetual unfolding of the highest tension of two poles, and the effect is a fire that is incomprehensible to human beings, a source of light of undreamt-of strength.... It is an emanation of the light emanating from the perfect spiritual beings into the universe, it is spiritual strength which is visibly guided as light wherever there is darkness in order to create the possibility for the still undeveloped spiritual to return into the proximity of the eternal light. It is an emanation which certainly has a similarity with earthly produced light, which is luminous in highest potency, whereas earthly light has a limited luminosity, as everything in the material world is limited. Forces that work against each other, if they fight fiercely, must then ignite when they are unyielding, that is, of insurmountable hardness, otherwise one force defeats or consumes the other. Now here are the most distant opposing forces at work.... highly perfect beings from the spiritual world permeated by God's strength and the forces of darkness, which still dwell unbound in the universe and seek to destroy everything that is to be addressed as divine creation. But nothing is within their reach. Their power is enormous, and so they proceed against those forces where they expect the hardest resistance, where they can let off steam and believe they can destroy what resists them. They abhor the light and want to extinguish it. The perfect beings, however, want to break through the darkness. This struggle of light against darkness is, however, at the same time the preservation of the entire earthly material creation. For forces come to development that multiply infinitely and push towards utilization.... and the utilization is only to awaken to life that which has been overcome in the struggle, to make it possible for that which has hitherto become inactive to become active through the supply of strength when it exposes itself to the working of the light. Thus the positive and negative forces constantly generate life, their struggle is visible through the light of the sun, but it is not an earthly explainable firepower which causes the extraordinary radiation, but the light of the sun is only visible in the earthly sphere when it touches the earthly material sphere as well as the spheres of those heavenly bodies which lie in the sphere of the sun and are fed with its luminosity. For these are the kingdom of the bound spiritual, which is allowed to take cognizance of the battle between light and darkness in order to draw benefit from this knowledge for the course of development. For this reason, however, no research can be undertaken beyond these spheres.... i.e., the cause of the sunlight can never be determined by research, because outside of the earthly sphere there is no further for the human intellect, because it exceeds the human being's power of thought, nothing can be proven but only what God reveals to people through spiritual enlightenment has to be accepted by faith. Research begins where it is actually already at an end. Everything earthly can be researched, beyond that the earthly intellect is not sufficient, and through earthly drawing of parallels it becomes entangled in error. For the spiritual world.... the world outside the earthly sphere.... is a completely different world with other laws and other effects, into which a person should never stoop in research if he does not want to fall prey to error....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

The spiritual sun

Spiritual sun.... heavenly gardeners.... word of God....

B.D. No. 0960

June 12th 1939

The sun of the spirit has risen, and its rays kindle in the heart the right love for God. And wisdom shines and illuminates the dawning morning.... And what slumbers there is awakened by the light shine. All life unfolds, and the will to activity becomes active. And what was dead revives.... and awakens to life in the sun's warming rays. And all this is brought about by the word of God, which, like the radiant sun, gives life and strength to the soul and can have a tremendous fruitful effect on the human heart. But this also requires a gardener who, in wise knowledge, exposes his plants to the rays of the sun in such a way that they can flourish and develop. And the lord works in the same way.... He protects the tender plants from the scorching embers.... He does not let starving child on earth take an immediate look into the spiritual kingdom, which could harm him. And yet He does not let it starve and does not deprive it of the beneficial effects of the sun's rays.... He constantly gives the child on earth spiritual nourishment and thus ensures his prosperity and further development. A little plant that has to starve for light and warmth or rain and dew will wither and soon wither faintly.... Likewise, without nourishment from above, without the divine word, an earthly child cannot develop to its fullest bloom, it constantly needs the influx of spiritual strength, it needs the light of divine wisdom and the warmth of divine love and can only flourish if it receives this uninterruptedly. And the heavenly gardener tends His plants with heavenly love and patience. He lets the most wondrous creations arise in the universe and everything is subject to His will. And everything is enlivened by spiritual power. Thus God's garden is entrusted to His creative will and is carefully tended and cared for. And the lord lets His sun shine on every little plant, and every little plant strives for the light.... Only the human being, as a creature of God standing in free will, sometimes eludes the beneficial effect of the light, the spiritual sun. As the most precious plant in God's garden, it is given special love from its creator.... it is offered all the nourishment that is to promote its prosperity. But how often is the light of the spirit and the warmth of love not received.... The little plant eludes the beneficent effect of the spiritual sun of its own accord and starves and perishes completely, where it was offered this in all fullness and all strength. The sun with its light and warmth is indispensable for the flourishing of everything that lives on earth, and likewise the word of God as the spiritual sun is the first condition for life one day in eternity....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Spiritual sun....

B.D. No. 4078

July 6th 1947

The spiritual sun has risen for people who have gained the knowledge of God through prayer and loving activity. It has become bright inside them, a radiant morning has replaced the dark spiritual night, and the day will last forever, it will no longer be followed by night, for whoever once has knowledge will keep it for eternity. Only when the sun of the spirit shines on a person does his heart find inner peace, for when it is day all the worries and fears of the night disappear, it is the feeling of security that determines the person, and this feeling gives calm and peace. Now and then a little cloud can still cover the rays of the spiritual sun, dismal moments in the human being's life can worry him, but the rays of the sun will always break through, they will shine ever brighter and more penetratingly, until finally the human being is completely radiated through and everything impure and wrong is consumed by their glow, until the rays no longer encounter any resistance and the human being is completely spiritualised.... Then man will live.... he will live for eternity. For the sun awakens everything to life, and nothing can be alive without its rays. Before anyone who walks along in the rays of the spiritual sun a life will open up which will make him blissfully happy, for he will have profound knowledge and be able to radiate this knowledge himself, thus become a bearer of light himself, as it were, a small sun which is fed by the great sun, which, spiritualised by its rays, can distribute spiritual knowledge, for the rays of the spiritual sun do not lose their strength, and the spiritual knowledge offered as light can be imparted to fellow human beings so that a bright morning can dawn on them again after a dark night. But only few walk in the spiritual sun, for the majority of people avoid the bright light and withdraw. And these are the people who steer clear of every spiritual debate, who do not desire the truth but are rather hardened or content if they know nothing about continued existence. Others, however, accept the knowledge and do not utilise it, that is, they only hear it with their ears but not with their heart, they do not feel the benefit of the sun's rays because they do not expose themselves to them, and therefore they are not alive either, for they lack the love which would also make the benefit of the spiritual sun's rays comprehensible to them. They do not see the sunrise, they remain in their state of twilight, for they do not desire the light and thus it will not rise for them either, because they escape the circuit of divine love. Still others are completely indifferent when the light from on high is offered to them. They feel comfortable in darkness and never seek to change their state, and therefore eternal night remains in them. But night is no one's friend.... Where spiritual night is, the soul falls into extreme hardship, the light of day must have an effect on it if it is to feel free and happy, it must be illuminated by the spiritual sun if it wants to live in eternity. And it can escape the night, it can always approach the radiant morning, for it only depends on the human being's will that he makes an effort to attain knowledge of God, that he practices love, that he unites with God through loving activity, even if unconsciously, that he then feels God, calls upon Him in prayer and commends himself to His love and grace. All this must precede if the human being wants to attain the right knowledge, if he wants to think right and know the truth, if he wants to become knowledgeable and be taught by God Himself through His spirit. But then he will be in the light, then the sun of the spirit will have risen for him, then there will be no more night, no darkness will be spread over him, he will find radiant brightness everywhere, he will walk the right path in the light of day which leads to the aim, he will release the soul from spiritual adversity, he will give it life and nothing will be able to frighten it anymore because it will always and everywhere be accompanied by the One Whom it has recognised in the light of the morning, Who Himself is the light from eternity....

Amen

Translation handled by Christian Taffertshofer

God's word - spiritual sun....

B.D. No. 7478

December 15th 1959

The spiritual sun shines in your hearts when you hear My word.... And it illuminates everything and dispels all darkness. The spiritual sun is the light from above which emanates from Me Myself and shall find reflection in your hearts so that it will work on and in you. The spiritual sun originates from the source of all light, from Me Myself, Who is the source of love, light and truth and Who constantly flows out to all beings in the entire universe, to all earthly and spiritual beings who open themselves to let My light of love flow into them. And where this sun now shines all darkness is eternally chased away, i.e., people who stand in the light of love of the spiritual sun also stand in realization, and all spiritual darkness has departed from them. And the human being feels good when he has escaped the darkness, even though he does not feel the great earthly grace as does his soul, which is happy that it has escaped the darkness and entered the circuit of My sun of love. But My sun shines for everyone, only those who flee its glow and voluntarily seek out the night will experience nothing of the benefit of the sun's rays, and therefore no ray will shine for them to show them the way out of the darkness. And thus My word from above sounds to all, but not all expose themselves to the benefit of the divine word, not all desire its rays and allow themselves to be illuminated by them.

Many continue to walk in darkness, they avoid the divine light of love, they don't listen when a light is brought to them through My messengers, when the divine gospel is proclaimed to them; they turn away and continue to walk in spiritual darkness and therefore cannot be happy in their hearts either, for the darkness will always deprive them of all cheerfulness, the darkness will depress them even if they walk in the world in the glow of the dazzling lights which, however, don't spread brightness in their hearts. They could bask in the rays of My divine light of love, they could be immeasurably blissful, and their soul would also feel it when it is illuminated by rays of light which enlighten everything in it and make it appear transparent, which was previously still confusion and darkness. The soul only feels at ease in the rays of the divine sun of love, it feels My radiance as a blessing and would like to constantly stay in this sphere, yet the human being's will is decisive as to whether the soul comes into its own or not, for the human being's will alone determines that it stays in the light of the spiritual sun or steps out again into the shadow of darkness where dense darkness surrounds the soul. And therefore the human being cannot be forced to listen to My word from above and make it his own, because free will always has to decide whether the human being opens himself to the rays of the divine sun of love or whether he closes himself off and flees the light.... to his own disaster and ruin, for the soul can only feel at ease in the light, and every dark state is a state of torment for it. But the spiritual sun constantly sends its rays out into the darkness, and every being which desires light can enter its realm and it will feel bliss in abundance, for My sun of love radiates brightest light, and where there is light there is bliss....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Spiritual sun.... Life force influx....

B.D. No. 7646

July 11th 1960

The sun of the spirit sends forth its rays and all of you shall enter its circle of rays in order to be illuminated for your soul's salvation. The sun of the spirit is the light of love which emanates from Me and wants to strike all My works of creation in order to fill them with strength which ensures the life of everything created by Me. For the whole of creation is sustained by My strength of love, thus constantly illuminated by the sun of the spirit. Whether it is the beingness still bound in form, whether it is the soul of man.... Everything can only come to life through My illumination, thus it can be active, for it receives strength from Me through the illumination which it needs for activity and which therefore also testifies to life. Yet there is a difference in the strength of the illumination which, in the human stage, can be of such abundance that it can result in eternal life for the human being if he is willing. For the strength of the illumination which hits him also depends on his will alone, and therefore also the measure of strength which can fill the human being. For during earthly life he not only receives the vitality necessary for existence but the more he enters the area of radiation of the spiritual sun the more he is also filled by spiritual strength which his soul receives and processes, and this then only works for its eternal life.... Spiritual strength carries the perfection of the soul into the human being so that it can then be active in the spiritual kingdom and be blissfully happy. Activity always proves life.... Activity always requires strength.... and strength is constantly radiated by My love, touching all beingness, depending on its degree of maturity or development. The beingness which is still bound in form is constantly illuminated by My strength, otherwise it could not exist as a work of creation.... And thus every work of creation is also active, even if it is not apparent to the human eye, but it changes in its external form, which brings about every activity. And all these creations contribute to the mutual preservation.... therefore this supply of strength is the strength necessary for the existence of the works of creation. And thus the human being also receives this vitality, but the human being should make use of it by entering My flow of strength of love of his own free will.... by entering the area of radiation of the spiritual sun.... by also being spiritually active in addition to his earthly activity, i.e. by working with love.... thus certainly performs earthly works which, however, have a spiritual effect if they are done in love. Then he will be illuminated by the sun of the spirit, then he will draw spiritual strength, then My divine sun of love can shine upon him and it will touch his heart.... the soul will receive the rays and be driven to unusual activity.... it will ceaselessly practise love, and thus it will come to life through love, which it can never lose again.... And then it is constantly active, it has emerged from the state of death, which was its lot because it had voluntarily removed itself from My flow of love.... And it must come to life again, for only then can it be blissful again as it was in the beginning. Then it will be permeated by My flow of strength of love again, as it once was, then it will create and work in My will again, then it will have become perfect, then it will be My image again.... a divine being that works in and with Me and is blissfully happy....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Spiritual sun.... lightning from rising to setting....

B.D. No. 2892

September 23rd 1943

The sun of the spirit is rising, everywhere it sends its rays which are to awaken to life, everywhere it warms the hearts of those who enter its circle of light, and this is a sign of the approaching end as it is proclaimed.... The truth will shine like a flash of lightning, it will ignite and no longer need light because it is the light itself which comes from the heavens. The spiritual night that lies spread over the earth will be displaced by the rays of the rising sun, for the light is stronger than the darkness.... God Himself enlightens hearts with His light, with His word.... And therefore do not be afraid, you who want to belong to Him, you who call upon Him in the trouble of the soul, do not be afraid, for His love snatches you from the darkness, He lets the rays of His love fall into your heart so that you learn to recognize Him, so that His light awakens you to life. In this hour the lord of heaven and earth reveals Himself.... Take up the battle that will set you free from the bonds of the earthly world; let Me be your commander, fight with Me and for Me, and you will emerge as conquerors of death. Do not fear the world, do not let it lure you, whatever it wants to prepare for you; think of My love, which can give you far more glorious things and destroy all promises of the world. And therefore let yourselves be guided by My fatherly hand, bear your earthly life for a short time in patience and submission and take up your cross, which My love will help you carry when you are in danger of flagging.... I am the sun whose light you need.... I am the light that shines for you in the night.... I am the truth and the life.... You will live if you stand in the truth; you will be able to escape the night of the spirit and be happy when My sun of love shines through you, warms you and makes you happy with its bright light.... In many hearts I flare up like a twitching flash of lightning and try to ignite them, but he who flees fearfully will not feel the power of My fire of love, he will remain cold and close doors and windows so that no ray will fall into his inner being, and deep night will remain around him. A flash of lightning will shine from the rising to the falling.... where people are, there I appear, and to all I make Myself known, to all people I seek to bring light, the knowledge of pure truth.... I reveal Myself in all places so that people can recognize that I am and want to draw them to Me.... From the rise to the fall My word resounds in the hearts of loving people who desire truth and strive towards Me, and I announce the near end to all.... And that is why I first illuminate the path for them which leads to Me, to My fatherly heart, so that it is not dark and lightless but of radiant brightness and which they therefore cannot miss if they do not close their eyes and prefer to walk in darkness. And wherever a ray of My eternal sun shines there is a blessed land, there you humans should gather, there you should let My rays of light have an effect on you, you should accept the truth, the light from the heavens, and unhesitatingly abandon yourselves to the working of My grace.... Have I not given you the promise to send you My spirit? My spirit is brightest light which must break through the darkest night, My spirit is the radiance of Myself, Who is the original light from eternity.... and My spirit will shine in the hearts where it is granted entrance.... My spirit is not localized, it is everywhere where there is a desire for light, but it cannot shine where man shuns the light because he feels comfortable in the darkness of the spirit. I, as the eternal light, also radiate light.... My spirit, which I pour out on people who want to receive it and strive towards Me. And if My spirit enlightens them they will likewise be bearers of light, they will rise like the spiritual sun in the sky of life, they will send out their rays, they will bring light and warmth to all those who want to escape the dark night, and they will awaken to life what is dead and lifeless and awaiting revival. For they have accepted the light from Me, they have opened their hearts and granted Me entrance. I have kindled a bright flame in them and let the spiritual sun shine for them, which will never lose its glow....

amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Moon, Saturn and Venus

Moon....

B.D. No. 7955

August 2nd 1961

Only I Myself can make truthful knowledge accessible to you, because only I know everything and all beings of light are also permeated by the knowledge which corresponds to the truth, because they receive this truth from Me.... since the illumination of My light of love into eternity imparts realisation upon all the beings I can address. This is why a being of light must have attained a specific degree of maturity, or it must accomplish a mission in order to reduce the spiritual adversity on earth.... But 'illumination of love' always signifies My transmission of truth, of knowledge relating to the spiritual sphere that cannot be gained by any other means than through direct illumination and that therefore requires receptive vessels to accept the eternal light of love. All perfect spirits are at all times ready and willing to be receptive and, as stations of strength and light, can therefore time and again serve to forward the light of love. People on earth, however, do not usually possess this degree of perfection. However, for the purpose of helping I can also choose a person as a receptacle for My love of light.... if certain preconditions exist which allow for it. I can also convey truthful knowledge to people on earth if My wisdom realises that it is necessary for people's salvation of soul to transmit light to them.... Then I will use a vessel which has prepared itself through love for the reception of My flow of love, this will guarantee the pure truth, because it is My will that people should gain possession of the truth. Then I will also instruct them in everything they need to know for the benefit of their soul. In that case the person would be able to ask any question, it will be truthfully answered for him. I always want to answer you if it benefits your soul. Consequently, you should ask Me spiritual questions, for knowledge about earthly things is worthless for the maturing of the soul. But I will also guide your thoughts correctly in every other aspect, because every error is detrimental for you, every error results in negative consequences, regardless of whether these consequences have a spiritual or earthly effect....

The simplest answer to your previous debates about the Moon is this: The moon constantly accompanies the earth on its orbit, but it is not constantly within the range of the Sun's light because spiritually it is further away from the Sun than the Earth.... The Earth circles the Sun and, due to its own revolution, the rays of the Sun will always affect a different part of Earth, thus resulting in light and darkness. Although the moon's orbit is the same, it nevertheless takes longer to circle, with other words, it cannot be exposed to the Sun's rays at the same time, instead, they will only ever affect that part of the moon which, during its course as the Earth's satellite, can catch the Sun's light. This is because its distance from Earth results in the fact that it requires more time to complete its orbit and so it cannot be affected by the sun's rays at the same time but in intervals instead, depending on the Earth's position in relation to the Sun. Thus the Earth does not stand as a shadow between Sun and Moon, instead, the Earth reflects the light it receives from the Sun during its rotation and which can be received by the Moon depending on its position to the Earth, and this always changes because, although the Moon accompanies the Earth as a satellite, its velocity is not the same as the Earth revolves around itself.... It accompanies the Earth in the universe but it does not rotate at the same speed, therefore it cannot always be visible to the inhabitants on Earth either. However, it will always be able to receive the sun's rays of light, which cannot be restricted by any other planets. The Moon certainly always accompanies the Earth, but on account of Earth's constant rotation it is, from time to time, not visible to the inhabitants on earth.... it cannot be seen.... not because the Sun does not shine on it or because it happens to be within the shadow of Earth, but because the inhabitants on earth themselves happen to be on the other side of Earth in relation to the Moon due to the Earth's rotation and because, on the other hand, they can also see the Sun and the Moon at the same time if this side of the Earth faces the Moon, the latter of which is possible during the day as well as at the night.... but this does not depend on the Sun's illumination, instead, it depends on the position of the Moon in relation to the Earth.

Amen

Translation handled by Heidi Hanna

Cosmos.... Illumination of stars....

B.D. No. 7960

August 7th 1961

Cast all your worries upon the Lord.... I Am truly your Father to Whom you should talk to as My children when you are downhearted, in a spiritual or earthly way. I said to you Myself 'Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest....' And I will truly take every worry from you because I love you.... My love for you wants to prove itself time and again, so that you will reciprocate it and thus return to Me. For once you rejected My love, and therefore I constantly pursue your love which will bring you back to Me. In order to gain your love I will also let you experience difficulties at times, which should make you call upon Me, then you will gratefully accept My help and recognise the all-merciful Father in Me, Who is manifestly present to you and your hearts will lovingly turn to Him.... And that is all I strive for.... Accept the spiritual proclamations as they are offered to you, for they come from the kingdom of light and will truly not cause darkness. However, that which does not enlighten you, which leaves you in the dark, need not come from the kingdom of darkness, because I repel these forces when they want to express themselves. Yet it will always be possible for Me to enlighten your spirit providing you unreservedly believe that only truth can come forth from Me and that you will therefore also write down everything that was conveyed to you.... (relates to proclamation 7955).... The will for truth guarantees the same, and even if a person's maturity has not yet reached the highest degree, I will nevertheless be satisfied with his will for truth in order to protect him from error. And although you humans think that you can conduct scientific research.... the laws in the universe are not yet completely known to you, for this reason you will also have to accept something that appears to be absurd if it is explained to you by Me Myself, for your alleged 'facts' are only 'assumptions' which can be disputed. The Sun's range of illumination is limited by law, because the heavenly bodies are more or less hardened spiritual substance, that is, material creations. And the harder the spiritual substance is, the more immature the spirits these creations shelter are and the more they also prevent the illumination. Thus rays of light will not reach them, because it is the law of eternity that resistance reduces the radiance of My light of love or even neutralises it entirely.... The law is not known to you humans, yet it takes effect in the universe, with other words: Everything in the universe is subject to this law, therefore it determines the spiritual state of maturity of the various stars and, for their inhabitants, also the degree of illumination and the degree of resistance of light. Thus the Sun can shine with brightest intensity and yet stars can repel its radiance or reject it on account of the unspiritual state both the works of creation as well as their inhabitants find themselves in.... This is particularly the case with the Moon, which can be considered a star of lowest-developed spiritual beings even in its consistency.... It is not excluded from the illumination by the Sun, yet it does not always allow for its effect.... Yet even the beings inhabiting the Moon are capable of changing, on account of which their state is not always the same and thus the Sun's influence on the star also varies.... These are always ever spiritual explanations, but they can nevertheless also result in understanding earthly processes, but which the scientists on earth will not include in their investigations and therefore also look for earthly-understandable explanations which are, however, not entirely free from error. Yet you should grant credence to My Word that you humans will never get to the bottom of it, for the Earth is one of the tiniest creations in the universe, and its inhabitants still have far too little knowledge about the correlations as to be able to fathom the universe with all My works of creation which I control and direct in My love, wisdom and power and which I let arise as a means of returning the spirits to Me which, having once fallen away from Me, also lost all light, all knowledge, and will only regain these when they have concluded the process through Creation and then be brightly enlightened as well....

SaturnB.D. No. 1008

July 16th 1939

Worldly scholars will struggle in vain to obtain a clear picture of the inner structure of extraterrestrial works of Creation. It is not enough to establish the numerical size ratio of other planets in comparison to Earth, nor is the intention of establishing the sun's influence on these planets and the measurement of luminosity sufficient Rather, the research of these planets requires people with enormous knowledge, and such knowledge can only be acquired by spiritual means. No connection exists between Earth and other planets, and no such connection will ever be established even if eternities pass by. On the other hand, however, spiritually, no limitations exist which separate one planet from another. The vast space between two planets does not prevent spiritual beings from communicating with each other and exchanging information about the world they inhabit and its structure. Providing a clear picture of the most related planet to Earth, Saturn, is the task of one of the elevated spiritual beings inhabiting it by giving you humans on Earth a description which offers an undeniable explanation to a person desiring such information. As yet no mortal has succeeded in establishing the dimensions of this planet, for it is not possible to calculate its size because people possess no criterion for the circumference of Saturn. It goes beyond all earthly estimates and is almost an infinite concept for you humans. The basic material of this planet is not the same as that of Earth either it consists of transparent, brightly sparkling metal with an inconceivable luminosity. The state of all beings within the vicinity of this radiant matter is in harmony with this brilliant light They are exceedingly sensitive to all spiritual currents and are relatively far advanced spiritual beings which, however, did not reach their state of light through conscious striving but are highly educated through God's will. The task of these beings includes taking care of the spirits on earth. Like on earth, they also live a similar physical life, except that the size ratio of the external shells they occupy is humanly incomprehensible, but accordingly their spiritual power is indescribably effective. Nevertheless, the beings also have to fulfil a function and this is in harmony with their respective embodiment, for these beings also exist in various external shapes on the planet's surface, but their ability to change far surpasses that on earth, insofar as that they are not animating some external shape as imperfect spiritual beings, but that they can, as it were, change their shell at any time so as to be able to accomplish their set task better and easier in a different shell. Consequently, Saturn shelters living beings, nevertheless they possess a certain degree of maturity or they would not be suitable for this planet since the abundance of light presupposes a specific receptivity to light. These beings are difficult to describe to people on earth because certain laws need to be taken into account which are unknown to people on earth. It would indeed be possible to portray them to you, albeit only in a metaphorical way which illustrates the beings' activity. And this activity is, in a way, just as necessary for people on earth, for the beings have the task of constantly animating the entire flora, nevertheless, the correlation of this cannot be fully understood by you as yet. Amongst each other, the beings lead a similar life as on earth, in total harmony and spiritual unity, so their dwellings are accordingly and magnificent creations of their own intelligence shaped the surface of the planet into an exceedingly charming abode. Creation consists of countless stars and yet each one differs from the other both in its surface arrangement as well as in the living conditions of its inhabiting beings In the same way their basic materials are always of a different kind too yet all these creations are governed and directed by one Deity according to His will. And thus God provides countless opportunities for a being so that it can receive and likewise distribute bliss for eternity through lively activity in accordance with its perfection.

Amen

Translation handled by Heidi Hanna

Creation, as man sees it, is only an infinitesimally small part of the work of creation and in no way allows conclusions to be drawn about the miracles of divine creation, which are and must be hidden from the eyes of man, since these are not of such a kind that man could grasp them. What man is able to see is always adapted to his conceptual capacity, yet the whole of creation displays so many marvellous works which are completely different in kind and form from the earth. When looking at the countless creations which are accessible to man, the question must be raised as to whether only these formations exist on earth or whether the same law prevails on other celestial bodies or world bodies and the same creations also exist. And this must be answered in the negative. The heavenly bodies are created in innumerable variations, and man cannot form a picture of how different each heavenly body is in itself and how they, which are nevertheless subject to the one lawgiver.... contain such diverse creatures and yet again all these creations serve the same purpose of contributing to the perfection of the soul. The creatures everywhere have a certain mutability of their outer form, and thus they enliven the star to which they are assigned and fulfil their task there, which was given to them from the beginning. This has to be made clear before the human being can gain an insight into the diversity of creations which are not visible to him. And this is only permitted for the purpose that they will pay more attention to earthly phenomena in the time to come, so that the emergence of creation will be made understandable to them and the coming changes will also be illuminated from the spiritual side.... (interruption)

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Research work.... stars.... Venus....

The most tireless research work will not come any closer to this goal as long as spiritual assistance is not sought at the same time, for the researcher approaches a task without knowledge which can only be accomplished spiritually. From the human point of view all works of creation, even those outside the earth, would have to possess the same material legality and they would also have to be subject to the same laws of nature, since otherwise it would be inconceivable for human beings to exist and come into being. But now all creations are based on different laws of nature for the first time, then also the composition in material relation is so fundamentally different with each individual work of creation and moreover also the basic condition for the possibility of existence of the beings inhabiting the creations is so different from each other that human science would stand here before a completely unsolvable riddle if it would approach the investigation of these works of creation just purely scientifically. And all previous results are completely worthless as they do not come close to the truth in the slightest. Man's sense, his capacity for comprehension and judgement does not extend beyond the earthly sphere and there are only a few possibilities to explain other creations in such a way that they are comprehensible to man.... The basic elements which man must know in order to understand their work are completely meaningless in other celestial bodies, and knowledge of them cannot be used to determine any phenomena which one would like to clarify. In order to penetrate into the secrets of other works of creation, a complete detachment from the earthly sphere, a liberation from everything visible on earth, is necessary first, the human being has to spiritually unite with the spiritual forces of those worlds and accept all explanations in this regard as a newcomer. And now try whether you will succeed in this....

The star to which you have given the name Venus is a star of indescribable charm. You should never imagine a structure that is like the earth, there are bright areas at regular intervals that appear varied and extremely attractive to the observer. These regions are inhabited by beings of the strangest kind according to human concepts. The stay in these regions is only temporary for these beings, as this star also serves the beings for further development. The entire surface of the celestial body is lovely to look at and offers its inhabitants a blissful stay for a short time, as they are constantly changing it. This world is so different from the earthly comprehensible that only a spiritual experience, a seeing, can convey the impressions to man and that even then it is still unspeakably difficult for man to reproduce these impressions so that fellow man can form a picture. And yet there is also a spiritual connection between that heavenly body and earth which makes it possible to be taught, it is just that a certain spiritual state of maturity is required which replaces the lack of human knowledge and is therefore the first condition in order to penetrate areas which otherwise remain closed to the human being....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

The Earth - Origin and development

The earth as a lightless star.... light reception....

B.D. No. 3397

January 7th 1945

Countless worlds proclaim the glory of God to their inhabitants, and everywhere He is praised and glorified as creator and sustainer of these worlds. Thus He is also acknowledged by the beings inhabiting those worlds as long as they are not completely undeveloped, i.e. inhabitants of lightless stars. The earth is also a still lightless heavenly body, and its inhabitants have different degrees of development, and the recognition and acknowledgment of the eternal deity is also corresponding. The beings on earth, the human beings, are indeed constantly supplied with light, the knowledge of God is conveyed to them so that they can attain the recognition of God and then likewise praise Him as their creator from eternity. Yet the light can only shine and unfold its brilliance if vessels can be found to receive it.... where the will exists to be regarded as light bearers of a lightless heavenly body. God is recognized and loved by those light bearers, praise and honour are paid to Him and His name is held sacred. Yet only a few are, and the earth remains in darkness, it is one of the celestial bodies which harbour ignorant beings and which can never shine by themselves, although undreamt-of luminosity can flow towards them, thus these celestial bodies mean constant battle with darkness for the inhabitants.... Their aim is light, yet the inhabitants of such celestial bodies must strive towards the light, they must catch it and hold on to it. They must seek to recognize God and strive towards His nearness, then light can radiate to earth in all abundance, and it can become a body of light, a luminous heavenly body, because light can constantly flow to it if people, in clearest knowledge of God, love Him as creator and sustainer and are united with Him, Who is the eternal light, through love. For the earth and its inhabitants have been granted the incomprehensible privilege that eternal love itself took this heavenly body as its abode, that it carried the light to earth, thus illuminating a lightless heavenly body with its rays, and that this light will not be taken from it eternally as soon as its inhabitants join the light and let it take effect on them. The earth can be recognized as a brightly shining star in the universe if only people's will strives towards the light, if people make an effort to unite with the eternal light. Then the earth can never again become lightless, for where the eternal love Itsself shines Its light, there can never again be darkness, there the lightlessness is banished.... The creator of heaven and earth is recognized, and His omnipotence, wisdom and love are praised....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Origin of the creation work 'earth'....

B.D. No. 7942

July 15th 1961

The path of the spirits across the earth will extend into eternity.... For the spirits themselves became the matter which earth and all its creations consist of.... God's will turned solidified spiritual substance into matter, thus the whole of the creation work earth.... as well as all creations in the entire universe.... is God's once emanated strength which He externalised as a 'being' but which so changed itself that it finally became mere hardened substance, which was then transformed into creations of all kinds.

This took place over an infinitely long period of time, because the 'transformation' also occurred in lawful order, the rise of what is now visible as 'inhabited earth' happened during countless phases of development.... it was not an instantly externalised work of God's creative power.... since even the slow development served its purpose.... Time and again minutely disintegrated spiritual particles were captured and reshaped, the process took an inconceivably long time before earth had formed itself into a work of creation which could serve as an abode and sustain physical life for the constantly maturing spiritual substance, as it was designated by God's eternal plan of Salvation. And even this spiritual substance took an endless time before it reached the degree when it was allowed to live as a human being on earth for the purpose of its final perfection.

This last earthly progress as a human being is but a moment in time compared with the infinitely long period of the earth's preliminary development.... Although the creation of every form was indeed the work of an instant for God, because His will and His strength externalised every thought as an existing work.... yet the resistance of the once fallen spirits determined the length of time until their physical transformation. For God did not force this spiritual substance but His strength of love captured it until its resistance had somewhat subsided in order to then encase it in accordance with His plan, to then shape it into various forms where it would perform some kind of activity which was so minimal that, again, an infinitely long time passed before these forms could gradually disintegrate and change....

The development of earth took ages until it could be inhabited by living beings, and these, in turn, prepared the earth for yet another inconceivably long time to become suitable for serving human beings as a last place of development.... The tiny individual particles of the human soul, however, had passed through all creations.... The fall from the highest pinnacle into the abyss had taken so long that thus an equally long time had been necessary to ascend from the abyss to the point when the being could receive its self-awareness again, that this final perfection then made it possible to travel the last path of ascent. But for the time being the creation had emerged, and this incorporates the innumerable fallen spirits whose return to God will subsequently also take an infinitely long time, hence an end of creation cannot be foreseen as yet....

Nevertheless, the 'creations' exist and everything will take its lawful course.... They are brought to life by ever new minute particles of spirit whose higher development takes place by way of constantly changing their outer form, and thus a continuous developing and disintegrating of every material creation can be observed.... All works of creation repeatedly renew themselves in this manner and thus serve the inherent spirit to achieve maturity, just as they serve humanity's continued development by safeguarding their physical life on earth. As long as the spirits bound in the creations do not have free will their path of higher development proceeds in accordance with God's will.... the constrained spiritual substance serves in some form or other and thereby matures gradually.... But as soon as the spirit lives on earth as a human being it is once again in possession of free will and then it is able.... instead of continuing to ascend.... to stop its development or to regress again. During the final period of its process of development it is able to fail.... And this regression can lead to the result that the spirit in the human being.... the 'soul' or the once 'fallen original spirit'.... will harden again as before. The outcome will be a disintegration of the soul into countless minute particles again which will have to take the path through the material creations once more.... And this process, which has now become necessary again, also requires the disintegration and transformation of all works of creation.... which can be described as the end of one earthly period and the start of a new one.

And thus you humans should try to explain it to yourselves, that such periodically enforced processes of transformation concerning the creation work earth will take place in accordance with God's will. They are always based on God's love and wisdom and only ever serve the redemption of the once fallen spirits.... And you need to also be prepared for such interventions by God when people no longer recognise the true purpose of their existence, when they thus do not use their earthly life for the maturing of their souls, for their final perfection. For the sole purpose of every work of creation is to bring the human soul into maturity, to help it become what it once was in the beginning.... a supremely perfect being, which originated from God's love but voluntarily apostatised from Him.... It shall return to Him again, and God Himself has provided it with the path of return through all the creations on earth....

Amen

Translation handled by Heidi Hanna

The beginning and the end of a redemption period are so far apart that an eternity can be spoken of by people who keep both points in time in mind. It is an infinitely long period of time because the development of God's individual works of creation requires a certain amount of time, since everything is based on God's laws and even the slow development is again a provision of divine love and wisdom in order to also guarantee this upward development to the spiritual which is sheltered in it. Since the beginning of creation these laws have been the basis of all visible works of creation, for the spiritual which had fallen away from God stood in such stubborn resistance to God that it had to start its course through the works of creation completely deprived of its will and thus completely without will, i.e. bound will. And this could only happen in such a way that they were forced to adapt themselves to divine laws which, however, completely contradicted the will of the once free spiritual being. The free spiritual is constantly active, therefore the unfree spiritual had to remain in inactivity, it had to be banished into an external form which denied it all activity.... It flowed as a free spiritual into infinity and removed itself from God in free will.... But through the removal the spiritual substance grew cold, it congealed and no longer released anything in itself.... God withdrew His love-glow from the spiritual, which had fallen away from Him, and all life, all warmth flowed out of it, and only a cold lifeless mass remained.... the primordial beginning of creation.... Endless times passed before this lifeless mass showed a glimpse of life.... endless times passed before spiritual entities decided to give up their stubborn resistance against God, before they yearned for light and made themselves receptive to light by giving up their resistance. But the slightest change of will loosened their outer forms, their fetters, and a quiet movement began in the lifeless mass, a barely noticeable activity.... the solid mass changed, in places it gave in to the urging of the spiritual within, burst apart and gave the spiritual the opportunity to be slightly active. In again infinitely long periods of time forms and shapes of the most wonderful kind came into being.... the spiritual was active according to divine natural law, its activity was determined by divine will and brought about creations of the most manifold kind. The resistance against God constantly diminished, and therefore the activity became ever more extensive and the resulting creations ever more diverse, at the same time also ever more able to dissolve because their substances were no longer so hardened, for the diminishing resistance meant the supply of light and strength from God, thus life and activity and thereby loosened fetters, i.e. softer external forms which did not require such a long period of time to dissolve. But an unspeakably long time passed before the spiritual had reduced the endless distance from God to such an extent that it was admitted to the last test of will as a human being.... Thus an infinitely long time passed from the beginning of material creation until the first human being, equipped with intellect and free will, was allowed to take this test of will.... And only now did the time epoch begin which people reckon with, only now did the battle of light with darkness begin.... The spiritual, which had travelled the endless long path through creation, had to prove to itself whether it wanted to finally give up its resistance against God or turn away from God again in free will and again fall prey to God's adversary.

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

Earth test.... new earth and its emergence....

Thus the human age was preceded by an epoch of earthly development which first shaped creation in such a way that the conditions of life were created for the human being on earth, for this was the prerequisite for the human being to be able to begin his spiritual ascent development. For the spiritual being, which was now embodied as a human being, had to serve with love in order to finally become free from the bondage, which was a deserved state for its former will to rule. For it had not acknowledged God as its origin, as its creator and producer, because it did not want to accept Him but believed itself capable of creating and shaping out of its own strength and of controlling its creations. It did not recognize that these arose out of God by using the power and that therefore everything was subject to the eternal divinity, which had come forth out of the will of Lucifer and the power out of

God. It did not submit and must therefore now, as a human being, muster the degree of will to acknowledge God as sole lord and creator and to unconditionally submit to His divine will. The earth was now at a stage where divine creation required human activity in order to give people the possibility of life.... God Himself instructed the first human beings in their earthly task, the fulfilment of which ensured their final release from form. But now the power of God's adversary set in, who had no power over the spiritual in the period of development before.... Man was endowed with free will, and this will God's adversary sought to win for himself. But this test was permitted by God because the human being was supposed to decide in fullest freedom of will for Him or His adversary. The latter tries to distract the human being from serving in love and to determine him to be active according to his will, which is often also the will of the human being himself. As long as people dwell on earth they stand as an object of battle between light and darkness.... For their souls are courted by both sides, which want to direct their will. The spiritual being, previously in a state of compulsion, striving towards God can reduce the final distance from itself to God but also increase it, yet it must inevitably also bear the consequences of its decision. Earth offers countless possibilities for spiritual ascent development, however, sinking into the deepest depth is also possible, and both are determined by the human being's will itself.... Yet even this period of development has an end as soon as the human will no longer makes use of any possibility.... as soon as it completely disregards spiritual ascent development and thus no longer fulfils its earthly task. Then the spiritual strives back again, towards the state it had already overcome endless times ago.... And God also places it into this state as soon as the end of the redemption period has come. He lets a new earth arise again and enlivens the new creation with this spiritual, which had failed in the period of development before. And indeed, all substance is dissolved which contains spiritual substances.... This is synonymous with the complete destruction of that which is visible to the eye as earthly matter.... The building up of the new earth, however, does not take place in the same way as at the beginning of creation, for the new human race no longer needs the slow preliminary development since it has passed the test on the old earth and is so far in knowledge that it understands the purpose and aim of every work of creation, thus new creations can come into being unhesitatingly before people's eyes without being a spiritual obstacle to perfection for them. The new redemption period is therefore only a continuation of the previous one, it only requires a change of the external form, a reshaping of the earth's surface for the purpose of new development possibilities through the emergence of new creations. For the earth itself remains in existence, it only releases the spiritual for a short time according to divine plan, which is banished again in new creations in order to mature more quickly for the next deformation. The people of the new earth are in a state of maturity which earns them a paradisiacal life, and they are always willing to be active in serving love. Consequently, they are initially not exposed to any resistance which, however, a slow development of the new creation would indisputably mean for them. God creates a paradise on earth for them, and this presupposes creations of incomparable beauty and most graceful magic.... And these creations are the work of a moment. Countless thoughts of God are placed by His will as works in infinity in an instant. Likewise, the new earth will arise without needing time, because nothing is impossible for His might and His will and because His love and wisdom cooperate wherever His will is active.... Human intellect, however, cannot grasp this, it also bases its own inadequacy on divine activity.... But only the imperfect human being applies this standard.... But since the new earth will only bear spiritually mature people as inhabitants, their thinking is free from doubts about the greatness of God and nothing is incomprehensible to them.... They praise and glorify God and His glory, and earthly glory only contributes towards deepening their love for God which ensures them a peaceful life on the new earth where God dwells in the midst of them because He is everywhere where love is....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers

The transformation of the earth

Collision of Earth and Sun Researchers The Earth's core

B.D. No. 0945
June 3rd 1939

It will be scientifically proven that, as a result of the Earth's advance towards the Sun, the continued existence of the Earth will be questionable after a certain time. And this evidence will remain unchallenged, because evidence to the contrary cannot be provided by anyone on earth who does not possess a clear knowledge about the course of all events through spiritual contact. However, a person who would like to convey this knowledge he receives through spiritual messages to the world will flatly be labelled abnormal, and although science will once again make a point of clarifying such symptoms, the human race will remain in the dark as long as it does not grant credence to such proclamations. On the one hand, the calculations of academics are not guaranteed, but on the other hand they do not take the time span into consideration, which they aspire to determine They do not avail themselves of the truth-revealing source of knowledge and since God, as the Creator of all things, has imposed limits which the human being cannot exceed without divine help, but which is consciously rejected, he can therefore never know the truth, since God will not arbitrarily revoke the order of His Creation. Nevertheless, despite this He will always and forever inform people of the further development and advancement of the works of creation, but precisely these proclamations are not regarded as truth, whereas the scientific reports and calculations are meant to be authoritative and will therefore also be acknowledged as irrefutable. And so scientists are totally convinced that nothing extraordinary can come upon the Earth before their calculated point in time has come indeed, as a result of this it is even believed that experiments can be conducted and that the Sun and its effect can be utilized on that basis, thereby reducing the Sun's strength and alleviating the collision of the Earth with the Sun accordingly. All these purely earthly experiments and results are absurd, for they are more likely to confuse human thinking than lead to clear realisation. God's creations repeatedly provide the evidence that no human being can ever contribute towards their emergence and that the human being was only granted the transformation of the Earth's surface, everything else is brought about by God's love, wisdom and omnipotence and the human being cannot contribute in the slightest to changing the law which has existed for all eternity. And thus this supposed disaster will never occur as people imagined, instead, the core of the Earth will suddenly and unexpectedly start to rotate and wreck all calculations by the scientists For this was not planned in the worldly researchers' latest calculations and scientific results, nevertheless, it was determined in the wise plan of the eternal Deity from the very beginning.

Amen

Translation handled by Heidi Hanna

Inner Earth activity Eruptions

B.D. No. 2448
August 13th 1942

Over the course of time changes occurred on earth, both in the interior as well as on the surface of earth. These are the result of the uninterrupted rotations around its own axis which caused shifts, and the elevations and depressions they created are still changing even now, that is, they are still shifting locally. Thus the Earth does not retain its external shape but has already gone through the most diverse alterations, even though its structure has remained the same. In contrast, the Earth's interior is constantly active and also triggers changes on the surface of the earth from within. This can be noticed in the vegetation which, throughout millennia, has also changed and will never remain the same, even though these changes do not happen over a short period of time and therefore cannot be observed by people during their life on earth. These changes generally occur so slowly and are barely noticeable to the eye, and therefore require a very long time. However, every now and then unbridled activity erupts in the interior of the Earth and sudden transformations manifest themselves which cause immense destructions on the Earth's surface and signify fear and horror for people. In that case the hitherto solid form dissolves and, incapable of withstanding the elements' violent activity inside the Earth, is pushed with enormous force from the inside of the Earth to the surface where it spreads out and, in a completely new environment, tries to adapt itself to the existing mass of earth or to creations in nature Such elementary eruptions also understandably result in a complete transformation on the Earth's surface They destroy the existing environment, revoke people's established order and result in inconceivable chaos which causes severe confusion and anguish in people because they are unable to cope with such eruptions and are thereby thrown into entirely different living conditions. However, a transformation of the Earth's surface has become necessary, although it can only be spiritually explained, since, from an earthly point of view, there is no recognisable progress in such a transformation, only a destruction and annihilation of what exists. But spiritually it is hugely significant.

The spiritual substance from within the Earth pushes upwards; it wants to start its process of development in the form. And it will need to live through countless phases until the spiritual substance can reach the final stage of its embodiment on earth. Having been bound in the hardest form for an unimaginably long time, the still undeveloped spiritual substance is given a certain amount of freedom so that it can release itself from this solid form, which it subsequently does with elementary force. People experience this manifestation of strength as a natural disaster which is, depending on its extent, more or less devastating for them. Although all spiritual substances will be constrained again, at first they will nevertheless inundate the plant and animal world and, to an even greater degree, people, by disturbing their tranquillity and posing a grave danger to them. It takes a very long time before such a change on the Earth's surface takes place, because it cannot happen arbitrarily, but only with God's permission, which He gives when the higher development of the spiritual beings grinds to a halt That is, when the being is in possession of free will and free will is no longer made use of. Then a balance must come about, and this happens when the still immature spiritual substance pushes the already further advanced spiritual substance into further phases of development, so that the latter will soon attain possession of free will. For this reason the Earth will always have to expect such changes from time to time and in different places, which have their natural origin in the constant activity of the elements in the interior of the Earth. Hence, the enlightened person understands natural disasters, for he not only realises the earthly, but also the spiritual necessity for this very same occurrence, and will always look upon them as God's reign. He is aware of the necessity for higher development of the spiritual substances as well as of the beings' low spiritual state, which animate the earth in the final external form, and of the opportunity for their deliverance Yet such natural events, which result in immense destruction, are incomprehensible to unenlightened people and neither do they recognise the spiritual nor the earthly value. Consequently, they will be horror-struck when the Earth's interior begins to move and they find themselves utterly helpless and at the mercy of the raging of the elements. Nevertheless, that which was decided from the very beginning will come to pass without fail as soon as the Creator of Heaven and Earth deems the time to be right.

Amen

Translation handled by Heidi Hanna

Transformation of Earth.... Eruptions....

B.D. No. 6282

June 11th 1955

The core of the Earth will remain unaffected when the creations' disintegration takes place.... The Earth as a heavenly body will continue to exist, merely its external form will be so completely reshaped, that one will certainly be able to speak of a 'new Earth', but not of the Earth's disappearance. This change will therefore involve even the deepest parts because many spiritual substances shall be set free and continue their process of development in new forms.... A hugely powerful tremor will release the bound substances and matter will be dissolved and be solidified again on an extensive scale.... Human thoughts cannot find any comparison to the act which will take place, even though the inadequacy of human thinking will be the direct cause of it.... Nevertheless, people have no idea of the ramifications of their undertaking otherwise they would shy away from experiments for which they lack the final knowledge. But regardless of what people do of their own free will, the redemptive plan for the spiritual beings has been adapted to this free will, the consequences will correspond to the divine plan of Salvation, it will serve.... no matter what happens.... to release the substances bound in matter, one period of Salvation will come to an end and a new one will start again.... All liberated spirits will enter a new external form because entirely new creations will arise and the divine order, which will be entirely revoked in the end, will be established again.... because the Earth must continue to fulfil its task of being a place of education for the still immature spirits, consequently it cannot completely cease to exist until it has accomplished this task. However, in its old form it no longer serves its purpose, precisely because everything has become disorderly since, on account of their will, people do whatever God's adversary demands of them.... because they destroy creations or use them for wholly God-opposing actions and thereby prevent the indwelling bound spirits from developing.... which is the adversary's intention, as he has no influence over divine creations and therefore exerts his influence over people who are enslaved by him.... And so God's adversary will also impel people to implement the final work of destruction without realising that he will exactly achieve the opposite of what he wants to achieve.... that the new creations will incorporate everything again which he had influenced, that he will thereby only lose consistently more followers and that new opportunities will be created again for the spirits to mature fully, so that one day they will be completely free from the adverse power.... The conclusion of this period of Salvation has been planned from the start, yet the human being has no idea how it will take place although he would only have to imagine an eruption on a huge scale, which is very possible, since time and again such eruptions occur, which people cannot deny.... The rotation of the interior of the Earth is caused by influences unknown to man, but in the end people will cause it themselves without realising the consequences of their action. God's adversary will impel them to do so, and thus it is his will and the will of people enslaved by him, which was included in the divine plan of Salvation.... Consequently, even hell and its adherents are of service to the Creator of Heaven and Earth.... the dark world unintentionally takes part in the redemption of the spirits and, in the final analysis, even the resistance to God contributes towards the fact that the path towards ascent will, time and again, be opened again for the spirits.... until the work of Redemption will finally be complete one day....

Amen

Translation handled by Heidi Hanna

Earth, a paradise....

B.D. No. 6561

June 2nd 1956

There could be a paradisiacal state already on earth if all people lived in God's will and served each other in love.... Neither hardship nor sorrow would oppress people and they would live together in peaceful harmony, always seeking to maintain each other's well-being and security and giving each other support where help is needed.... Where love reigns, there is no discord, no envy, no greed.... where love reigns, there is no arrogance, no impatience, and no enmity.... For God Himself is where love is, and He blesses the people who are united to Him through love. But the earth is not such a blessed place that it could be called a paradise.... The earth is dominated by God's adversary whose will is carried out far too zealously, and the earth shelters a majority of people who lack love, who therefore live at enmity with each other, and no-one strives for the other's advantage but everyone only thinks of himself in self-love. But it shall become paradise.... For the time has come when Satan's activity will be put to an end, the time has come when the human race must be renewed, when the few who still have love within themselves and strive to live according to God's will have to be separated.... The time has come when the earth will be cleansed and transformed into the Garden of Eden again, where God Himself can dwell amongst His Own again, because love reigns on earth again.... You humans who are now living on earth are facing this transformation, this purification, the end of the old earth.... Although you will not be able to comprehend that and how such a transformation will take place, yet with God no thing is impossible.... And this transformation has been planned for eternity, after all, the state of unkindness amongst people has been known to Him for eternity, which no longer allows for upward development and therefore also causes the end of this earth. The earth is indeed intended to be a maturing station for the developing spiritual substance, the souls are intended to shape themselves into love during their earthly lives.... But they can also do it, and thus people could already create the paradisiacal state for themselves in earthly life, and within a short period they would have reached the degree of maturity and be able to enter everlasting bliss.... But they misuse the grace of their embodiment on earth.... They do not strive for a change of their nature, they remain in their loveless state, which was the result of their former apostasy from God, and thus they create for themselves a life of hardship and misery, sickness and sorrow.... and perish physically and spiritually.... For they only have a limited time on this earth. And that is why a limit has also been set for the human race, so that it can only sink to a certain depth in order to then be integrated anew into the process of maturing, which is extremely painful but nevertheless successful. But the earth will take on a new look, both as creation and spiritually, for the new human race consists of souls which were serious about their transformation, about their maturity.... which have shaped themselves into love and therefore may experience the paradise on the new earth. And God Himself will be in their midst, for their love permits of His presence. And all adversity will now be over.... All of you humans are facing this change. Ensure that you be among those who may take possession of paradise, ensure that love fills your hearts, that you still use the short period of time until the end, that you live according to God's will, Who only requires of you to fulfil His commandments of love.... For soon the time of grace will be over, soon the hour of the end will have come....

Amen

Translation handled by Christian Taffertshofer

Earth school of the spirit....

B.D. No. 4336

June 15th 1948

Consider the earth as a school of the spirit, as an educational station for eternal bliss, consider Me as your teacher Who cares about your education, Who wants to shape you into mature, perfect creatures so that they can be active themselves in shaping what is still imperfect and therefore unhappy. Do not regard the earth as an end in itself but as a means to an end with all its creations, which are only the will that has become form and the sign of My great love for you and which are meant to help the imperfect being to attain perfection. And know that you, having emerged from My strength, remain eternally united with Me, that you, as a part of Me, can never ever be rejected by Me, but that you must be perfect if you want to be active with Me and in My will. And if you now look at creation with Me in mind, consider that the whole of creation exists for you but that you yourselves are the centre of this creation.... the most highly developed work of creation endowed with intellect and free will and that you, as living creations, are constantly in contact with your creator. Although the world appears large to you, you are the life in this world, for you embody the spiritual being which stands at the end of the earthly course as beings cared for by My love, which I want to draw over into the spiritual kingdom, which I want to make happy with My constant nearness. I do not leave one of these beings to its fate, not one needs to do without My care and love, every single creature can feel safe under My protection and bask in the rays of My grace. But it has to make use of earthly life, otherwise it will prolong the time of its earth-boundness, otherwise endless times can pass until it is mature for the spiritual kingdom, until it can dwell in the light, in My nearness and be blissfully happy. Earth is the school of the spirit, therefore this must be taken into account, i.e. the spirit must first be given the opportunity to develop, it must be given the opportunity to reveal itself to the soul, so that the human being will now live in accordance with My will.... he must be instructed so that he becomes suitable for eternity. But he can constantly receive the instructions, for My love will consider people such that they will be able to fulfil their earthly task if only they have the will to do so. And thus I will present them with knowledge which completely corresponds to the truth and which will let them mature on earth if they accept it and use it accordingly. I Myself will train your spirit, for it is part of Me and establishes the connection with the eternal father-spirit if you don't resist and let Me Myself take effect in you. And thus you receive My word through the working of the spirit as a sign of My love and as a means to your perfection. I Myself speak to you, and if you listen to Me you will inevitably ascend, you will recognize what you once were, what you are and what you shall become, you will successfully complete the school of the spirit and be able to leave earth as beings of light and enter My kingdom and you will eternally thank Me for this school which shapes you into perfect beings again, which you were from the very beginning.... children of your father from eternity....

Amen

Translation handled by Doris Boekers